

HYDRA GLASS SHUTTER

HYDRA is a shutter consisting of a self-supporting structure with horizontal glass slats. The exposed box or recessed ceiling structure can be finished in brushed stainless steel or powder coated. Fixing it is through spacers for eventual adjustment on the walls. The glass' transparency combined with the brightness of the stainless steel make HYDRA a tasteful piece of furniture that becomes a symbol of elegance, lightness and spatial continuity.

HYDRA has a drag chain mechanism with and a "parachute" device against the risk arising from failure of the transmission system.

An electronic security key controls the motor when opening or closing. The glass is bundled inside the box.
